Executive Assistant Anuradha Gajaraj-Lopez under the guidance of RICV Executive Director Robert Hand.

RICV is one of 20 U.S.-based organizations and institutions competitively selected to host approximately 40 disability rights advocates and leaders from 40 international organizations in 20 different countries.

RICV is partnering

Bob with Korean partners

with two South Korea based organizations under the grant.

Korea Differently Abled Federation and Human Rights Law Foundation of Gonggam, and RICV will work to implement a long-term project on developing a manual based on exchange of best practices in the two countries to promote services.

Bob Hand visited Seoul, South Korea for a preliminary exchange visit in August.

The Korean partners will be hosted by RICV, from October 19th for ten days. Part of this exchange will include meetings with community partners, political representatives and participation in service oriented events.

7th CLA Cohort Held At Fresno

Five persons graduated from the seventh Community Leadership Academy cohort organized by Resources for Independence Central Valley.

The cohort held at the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Service Center in July and August this year, had several speakers.

Kizzy Lopez, Director of Renaissance Scholars program of Fresno State, Yvonne Spence, Fresno City Clerk, Consultants Jackie Ryle and Don Simmons handled sessions at cohort.

Senator Tom Berryhill, Assemblyman Henry Perea and Jim Patterson provided certificates to the graduates.

DOR Director Tony Sauer: An Inspiration To All

His arms move in slow motion, as he slows down his breathing and focuses on the flowing form of Tai Chi.

After a hectic day at the helm of the California Department of Rehabilitation (DOR), Tai Chi is Anthony 'Tony' Sauer's way of going into a meditative state and finding his center. It does not matter that he is immobilized from the chest down. For, Tony is a paraplegic, due to a spinal cord injury.

Tony Sauer is the Director of the Department of Rehabilitation in the State of California. He is responsible for a budget of over $400 million, and a staff of 1800 employees statewide.

While others would have dismissed the idea of practicing any form of martial art with this type of disability, Tony's attitude of saying yes to life's challenges and opportunities is perhaps the secret to his fulfilling life.

What makes Tony's story different is he was not born with a disability. He had the typical American childhood with a supportive family and had dreams like every American teenager. Motorcycle racing was his passion.

On that fateful day that changed his life, Tony was in top form, zooming on his motorcycle, the lead position in a race at the Los Angeles Coliseum. Just turned 18, Tony had been racing for nearly five years. He had pretty much decided on what he wanted to do with his life - He would own a motorcycle shop and race.

His life changed in an instant due to a freak accident at that race in Los Angeles. He was thrown from his motorcycle and was then hit by another racer coming behind him. The injuries he sustained rendered him permanently paralyzed from the chest down.

A few weeks into his recovery, a DOR counselor visited him at the hospital in Los Angeles and asked him the all-important question, "What did he want to do with his life?"

Accepting the reality that his motorcycling dream would never be realized, Tony thought about what his new goals in life might be. Well, he had enjoyed some woodworking classes at school, so he decided to change his focus to - making cabinets. And with the help of the California Department of Rehabilitation, Tony enrolled in cabinet making courses.

His disability did not stop him from having a successful career as a professional cabinetmaker and later a woodworking instructor. He enjoyed that career and could have continued comfortably in that line of work for the rest of his life.

But Tony wanted to do much more. He wanted to bring his personal experience in facing the challenges of a disability to the community; to advocate and promote a better life for persons with disabilities; and to bring the "I can" attitude into their lives. In 1990, Tony made a major career change and decided to focus his passion around advocacy and began working full-time in the disability field.

A decade later, he earned a Master's Degree in Management and Disability Services from the University of San Francisco and was a fellow in the Health Leadership Program at the Sierra Health Foundation and the University of Southern California's School of Policy, Planning, and Development.

Twice after his racing accident, he was a consumer of the Department of Rehabilitation. Tony had no inkling that one day he would become the Director of this department!

Since 1990 Tony has held executive level positions in four community-based and government agencies serving persons with disabilities.

Tony's rise from being a consumer of the DOR to becoming the Director of DOR is impressive. His sheer determination, dedication and ability reached the attention of Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger, who appointed him the Director of DOR in 2007. His hard work and strong initiative is evident in his accomplishments throughout his career.

As Director, Tony is able to identify and improve areas of operation to provide better services to persons with disabilities. He introduced new Vocational Rehabilitation models drawing on his personal experience, which brought important elements to the fore in assisting persons with disabilities.

In 2011, his position as Director of California State DOR was reaffirmed by Governor Brown's Administration standing testimony to the respect that Tony's work has gained in the state!

Notwithstanding his unrelenting schedule at work and his many commitments to boards and committees, Tony manages to spend quality time with his lovely wife Katherine Thompson and their four daughters in Northern California.

This then is the story of Anthony 'Tony' Sauer, a person who overcame the challenges of his disability and continues to annually reach out to over 100,000 persons with disabilities in the state! A true inspiration to the field of independent living!

Making Waves At The Capitol

RICV Intern Isaac Haney-Owens introduces Senator Beall

them to wait and came back with one of his staff, who also was from Fresno State and introduced her, lending a very local and personal touch to their meeting.

During the rally, RICV's intern, Isaac Haney-Owens introduced Senator Jim Beall, but only after rallying the crowd with his enthusiasm and encouragement to advocate.

RICV's Community Organizer, Joanna Zamora presented one of the Jack Campbell awards to DAT member, Ronald Allan. Ronald was one of three advocates from throughout the state awarded for outstanding advocacy in 2012.

They also participated in legislator visits. In all, 35 consumers accompanied RICV staff.

"I really wanted to meet the Senator," said Marla (name changed), a youth consumer. The group of consumers from RICV had just been told that Senator Beall was busy. They were on the legislator visits as part of the Disability Action Day activities at the Capitol on May 22nd.

Letter of Appreciation

Neana and others

Hello ladies, I can't thank you enough for the wonderful evening last night. I really appreciate how thorough, thoughtful, loving, kind, and encouraging you all are to both Ben and me. I think it gave Ben a boost for the Discovery House and gave added support to me for sure. The relationships that we all have created over the years is really a treasure to me. I am grateful to have you all as such quality peers, helpful mentors and dear friends. I am blessed. Very fondly,

Life Goes On: Art Olvera

Art Olvera is the CEO of Life Goes On-Home Improvement organization.

He helps persons with disabilities in all aspects of accessibility issues. He is also successfully employed in a full time job and serves on the board of directors of RICV.

Art is an inspiration to all with his ready smile and positive spirit.

Active in sports, Art led a normal life until as a passenger in a drunken driving accident, Art was left a quadriplegic.

That was in 1988, when Art was just 19. His then classmate at Heald College Mary and Art started dating after his accident. This happy relationship culminated in a successful marriage.

For Art, the idea of helping persons with Disabilities, germinated with his own experience.

When he was released from the hospital after the accident, he and his family had little or no help on how to adapt to the new situation.

After years of personal experience in his own pursuit for independence, as well as observing the struggles of other disabled individuals, Art and his wife Mary formed Life Goes On-Home Improvement, a non profit 501(c)(3) corporation in order to help people with various disabilities improve their home environments to maximize accessibility, independence, safety, and social interaction.

Fully supported by a board, Life Goes On-Home Improvement is committed to coordinating accessibility projects from start to finish.

“If you are looking to do something different in your life, listen to your Inner voice, “Art says pointing out, if you knew you wouldn't fail, what would you do?”

Client Speak

Hello,

I am Janice Cooper, and I wanted to thank you for providing such excellent disability resources on your site <http://www.ricv.org/resource.html>. My husband went on disability last year after a work accident left him blind, and your site really helped us through our tough time. I was particularly appreciative of the financial resources!

In my research I also came across this great page: <http://turbotax.intuit.com/tax-tools/tax-tips/General-tax-Tips/tax-tips-for-the-legally-disabled/INF22825.html>.

We spent so much money last year at the hospital and then making adjustments at home, that we have been really strapped for cash. I had no idea that all those expenses were tax deductible! These tips were really a lifesaver.

And once again, thank you so much for all the help!

Cheers,

Janice Cooper
